GREAT PLAINS Journal

Steve Wilson, Editor
Mary Owensby, Editorial Assistant
John Hernandez, Design Assistant

VOLS. 30–31, 1991–92

CONTENTS

The Spider Rock Treasure:
Bizarre Quest for Lost Spanish Gold

By Steve Wilson 2

The Bounty Wars of the West and Mexico

By Ralph A. Smith 107

Cover: Frank Olmstead was a college professor when he became enraptured by the Spider Rock treasure in 1920. He sold his La Salle County, Illinois, farm in 1933 and built his dugout high on a bluff overlooking the Salt Fork of the Brazos in Stonewall County, Texas. He followed the trail of the fabled Spanish treasure only a decade after Dave Arnold mysteriously disappeared. Olmstead died in November 1948. Today his dugout remains much as he left it, untouched except by the elements, and rodents and rattlesnakes that have claimed it for their own.